

dead days \ded dāz\ 1: the days at the end of a college semester when classes do not meet or when students are not permitted to hold organized activities so that they may study for finals. 2: the days at the end of a college semester when students drop acid in the back of a pickup and are unable to find their classroom the following morning.